The General Administration is improving the system-wide process of approving and implementing graduate proposals.

Until recently, the system-wide Graduate Council was represented by a Faculty representative and Graduate Deans. There was a desire to change the composition based on the way programs are reviewed at the system level. Now the UNC Graduate Council will consist of Graduate Deans only but campuses will still be invited to provide faculty input for the review of new degree proposals.

- Hall-Hertel distributed a handout and communicated that she is seeking the Graduate Council’s endorsement for more career support for graduate students.
- She is proposing to hold a full-day workshop using four faculty members.
- The purpose of the workshop is to assist PhD candidates and post-doctoral students seeking academic jobs and exploring non-academic jobs.
- She has obtained advanced sponsorship by CRI and CPAE.
- A discussion followed covering when to offer the workshop (fall or spring) and how do we identify PhD candidates.

VI. Graduate Program Director (GPD) Proposal – Dean Tom Reynolds
Dean Reynolds stated that the draft job description for the GPD lists those duties to be done at the program level; not just for a single individual. Other areas that need to be addressed with the GPD are:

A. What resources do we need to fund this position?
B. A position of leadership
C. Communication for this individual
D. Can the Graduate Council come up with a set of baseline requirements?
E. 9 month vs. 12 month stipend?

The Dean would like to see the Council serve as a unit to promote this position. Long term, be the Advisory Council. He would like for the Council to prepare a draft job description with responsibilities; endorse it or modify as needed. Then take this draft back to their colleges to implement. Each college may have a slightly different model. Use this as a guideline at the unit level.

A discussion took place. Chair McGregor stated that he would get with David Swindell to see what information was collected in a former report. Will continue the discussion at the December 4 meeting.

VII. Graduate Program Review Discussion – Dean Tom Reynolds
Dean Reynolds continued the discussion of the Graduate Program Review process. The Graduate Council is asked to serve as the internal review panel as a pilot study for one year. The Dean gave the Council the option to break up in teams to review the cluster or act as a group. There was some discussion of the need to have a comprehensive listing of program accreditations and reviews to see if the timing of the GPR could be brought in line with other types of review. Leslie Zenk stated she would look into this possibility.
